

About Us

Our priority has always been to create small child centred groups which ensure that our staff build personal relationships, which support each child and their parent's needs.

The nursery incorporates every safety feature from biometric fingerprint entry system, CCTV throughout, and finguerguards on all doors. This has enabled us to deliver an exciting programme of activities in a safe and stimulating environment.

The nursery is led by Michelle Shelswell, who has achieved Early Years Professional Status, an award given to graduates who are assessed against 39 standards of personal practice, and the ability to lead and support others. And Dale Ward, who has extensive experience of working directly with children and their families, and supporting staff.

All our Nursery Nurses hold childcare qualifications, and are fully vetted through interview, references, and a DBS disclosure. Staff receive on-going training, appraisal opportunities, and supervision to ensure children are both safe-guarded, and that they receive an excellent standard of care. We are very proud to have a very low staff turnover rate.

Our aim is to ensure that families feel comfortable and confident in leaving their children with us in the knowledge that their child will be well cared for, and will enjoy and achieve during their time with us.

Set in the rural village of Hardingstone, we offer an excellent standard of care and education to children between the ages of 3 months to five years.

We firmly believe that all children deserve the very best experiences and opportunities in their early years, and this is what we strive to offer to all children with us.

Full and part time sessions are available 51 weeks per year excluding bank holidays.

We would very much like to meet you and your child and show you around our lovely nursery. To ensure you are given our full, and un-hurried attention, please phone us to arrange a convenient time.

Hardingstone Day Nursery is committed to provide children with the foundations to develop a wide range of skills, and has locally gained an excellent reputation. We always feel very honoured when families choose us to care for their children, and are committed to working with parents to offer individualised care and learning.

Children partake in a wide range of activities both indoors and out to increase their experiences and develop their understanding and learning. Nursery staff evaluate the effectiveness of these learning opportunities, planning weekly for each and every child so that they can reach their full potential.

Extra activities are provided for each group. Our under 3's have a weekly music bugs session, and over 3's have a French session learning numbers, colours and basic words through singing and using puppets. We are also visited each week by a yoga teacher for our 2-3 year olds. There is no additional cost for extra activities.

Our ethos and objectives

To create a happy and safe and stimulating environment, so children look forward to the time spent with us in their early learning years.

Recognise that each child, and family is unique with individual needs, abilities and interests, and use this knowledge to plan appropriate, individualised care and education.

Give support to enable children to develop the attitudes, skills, and knowledge they need to have high self-esteem, and a positive disposition to learn.

We recognise the importance of play as a medium of learning, and believe that children learn best through practical activities and experiences where they are an active participant of those experiences.

To provide an excellent standard of care and education following the Early Years Foundation Stage.

How this is achieved:

Caring qualified staff work as a team to meet the needs of children and their families. Staff spend time building professional relationships with children, and their parents and other carers to ensure continuity in their care and learning.

The nursery recognises the importance and impact of on-going staff development and training. We actively seek out and deliver training opportunities to staff to update their knowledge, and keep informed of new research and policy.

Through careful selection our team members build relationships of genuine care and respect with each child and their family.

Funds are continually invested into a range of traditional, and modern resources and learning aides. Resources are selected to promote diversity, and stimulate interest and exploration.

Individual observation, planning and assessment of all children in accordance with the Early Years Foundation Stage.

Babies to 18 months

During this period, young children's physical development is very rapid and they gain increasing control of their muscles. They are learning from the moment of birth. Even before their first words they find out a lot about language by hearing people talking. Our sensitive staff build relationships of genuine care and affection with the babies, offering a wide range of safe and interesting experiences which involves all the senses and fosters exploration and imagination.

18 - 30 months

Children in this phase are usually full of boundless energy and need careful support to use it well. Growing physical strengths and skills mean children need active times for exercise and quiet times for calmer activities. Children learn about one another and begin to understand thoughts and feelings, and how to co-operate with one another. Our experienced staff ensure children learn how to deal with conflicts in a positive manner.

30 - 40 months

Children's fine motor skills continue to develop and they enjoy making marks using a variety of resources. Children find a balance between independence and complying with the wishes of others through their increasing ability to empathise with others. Literacy and numeracy develop rapidly through an exciting array of resources and materials. Our highly qualified staff support children by incorporating ideas and information to develop their play.

36 months +

Children in this stage build a strong sense of their own identity and their place in a wider world. Our enthusiastic staff foster and encourage child's self-esteem, enabling them to tackle and deal with issues, creating a 'have a go' attitude. Children become better able to plan and undertake more challenging activities with a wider range of tools and materials as they understand rules surrounding safety.

The Early Years Foundation Stage

Hardingstone Day Nursery offers children the opportunities to reach their full potential in the seven areas of learning and development following the four guiding principles that shape our practice. These principles are:

- Every child is a unique child, who is constantly learning and can be resilient, capable, confident and self-assured. -Children learn to be strong and independent through positive relationships.
- Children learn and develop well in enabling environments, in which their experiences respond to their individual needs and there is a strong partnership between practitioners and parents and/or carers.
- Children develop and learn in different ways and at different rates.

The Seven Areas of Learning and Development

Communication and Language

This area provides children with opportunities for speaking and listening and ignites children's interest in reading and writing. To give children the best opportunities for developing communication and language Positive Relationships support children to communicate their ideas and thoughts with each other and with adults. Enabling Environments contain signs, symbols, words, songs and notices as well as a rich variety of books.

Personal, Social and Emotional Development.

This area develops children's positive sense of themselves. It teaches about having respect for oneself and others, developing social skills and a good attitude to learning. To give children the best opportunities through Positive Relationships, adults form caring relationships with all children. In enabling Environments, opportunities for play and learning are created that help children embrace differences between themselves and others.

Physical Development

This area provides opportunities for children to be active and develop their co-ordination, manipulation and movement. It develops understanding of the importance of being physically active and eating healthily. To give children the best opportunities through Positive Relationships, children are supported in their understanding of exercise, sleep and eating to promote health. Activities in Enabling Environments both indoors and outdoors encourage energetic physical play.

Mathematics

This area supports children's understanding in different situations by providing opportunities to explore, practice, learn and talk about mathematic concepts. They practice skills and gain confidence and competence. To give children the best opportunities through Positive Relationships, children use mathematical words and ideas in their play. Enabling Environments have resources for counting, calculating, sequencing and shape available indoors and outdoors.

Expressive Arts and Design

This area supports children's curiosity and play. They explore and share their thinking, ideas and feelings in music, art, movement and dance, role play and technology. To give children the best opportunities through Positive Relationships, children value their own unique ideas and those of others rather than reproducing those of someone else. Enabling Environments are stimulating and originality and expressiveness are valued. Learning and Development experiences allow children to express themselves through various types of representation.

Literacy

Literacy development involves encouraging children to link sounds and letters and to develop the skills required to begin to become a successful reader and writer. Children's skills are developed through the letters and sounds guidance and are given access to a wide range of reading materials such as, fiction and non-fiction books, poems, labels and magazines to ignite their interest.

Understanding the World

This area offers children opportunities to explore and observe the environment, living things and objects. To give children the best opportunities through Positive Relationships, parent's and carer's knowledge extend children's experiences of the world. In Enabling Environments, open-ended questions like, "How can we...", and "What would happen if...." are used. Learning and Development is based on first-hand experiences to observe, predict, make decisions and discuss.

Inspection findings

Effectiveness of the leadership and management is outstanding

The arrangements for safeguarding are effective. All staff are very confident about how to keep children safe and protect their welfare. A commitment to regular training and discussions during team meetings ensures that staff are able to identify concerns and follow the nursery procedures for recording and reporting any child protection issues. Staff are fully supported to develop their role in the nursery. Managers focus precisely on individual's professional development through supervision, mentoring and appraisal. Highly effective monitoring of children's progress results in those who require extra support being identified swiftly. Very effective, focused plans are devised with parents and implemented successfully to help children catch up.

Quality of teaching, learning and assessment is outstanding

Outstanding observation and assessment are truly intertwined with the planning for individual children. Staff take full account of children's interests on a daily basis and this results in them being eager and motivated to take part in the exciting activities. Babies show wonder, smiling broadly at staff as they watch bubbles float across the room. Toddlers are excited to develop their physical skills as they use a low-level climbing frame, going up and negotiating the slide. In the garden, older toddlers become engrossed in exploring soil, mixing it with water and using sticks and leaves. Pre-school children follow an enduring interest in pirates. They thoroughly enjoy mixing paints to colour a large box. Across the nursery the quality of teaching is excellent. Staff are highly skilled at engaging children, helping them to think about how to solve problems they encounter. They facilitate learning by extending the opportunities available to children.

Personal development, behaviour and welfare are outstanding

Children immerse themselves in the exciting and stimulating environment where they have access to an abundance of resources and play materials. They are actively encouraged to choose what they want to do and can extend their own learning by moving items around as they wish. Staff work exceptionally closely with parents, taking full account of information from home. This highly consistent approach ensures that children's individual needs are met extremely well. Children have very successful transitions in the nursery because staff strongly promote their emotional well-being. Children rapidly learn about the benefits of a healthy lifestyle, such as managing their own personal hygiene. They play outside in the fresh air and enjoy healthy food.

Outcomes for children are outstanding

Children make rapid progress. They are extremely well prepared for the next stage in their learning and for starting school. Children are very independent, confident and highly motivated. They make close friendships and learn to respect and care for one another.

Partnership with Parents

We recognise that parents are children's first and most important educators and we actively encourage a daily exchange of information. This exchange includes daily verbal communication, daily written logs for children under 2, parents meetings and social events, e-mails to parents from children's keyworkers, as well as displays of photograph's of children actively involved in activities.

Prior to a child starting at the nursery, we collect a variety of different information from the parent so that we can learn about the child. We encourage parents to initially stay with their child during the settling in process so that we can build a relationship with parents, learn about the child, and ensure children are supported during the transition.

Each child has their own key worker. A key worker is-

- the person who acts as a point of contact with you;
- a person who helps your child to become familiar with the nursery and feel confident and safe within it;
- a person who meets the needs of each child in their care and responds sensitively to their feelings, ideas and behaviour; and
- a person who takes careful note of your child's development and progress and shares these ideas with you-A person who finds out about the child's current interests and learning styles at home, and includes this information in the child's individualised learning plan.
